RAY DAWSON THE STAR OF THE MANHATTAN BEACH MEET-HE DEFEATS SCHADE IN DASHING STYLE IN THE FIVE-MILE

RACE-THREE RECORDS BROKEN. Columbia University has not been a formidable opponent in track and field athleties in recent ears, but when it comes to cycle racing the local University is easily the peer of any college or university in the country. A year ago Columbia carried off the honors in the intercollegiate bicycle championships easily, and she tried to repeat the performance at the Manhattan Beach track yesterday. She succeeded beyond the fondest expectatured every race on the programme, and in most in-stances won second place as well, while in one race blue and white captured the first three places. Ray Dawson was the star of the meet. The Adonis of Boonton was first in both the mile and five-mile races, while with Powell he also won the tandem championship. Dawson was a strong rider present, and if he can hold his form he will be a hard man to beat on the New-York State circuit, which will begin at Fredonia on Tuesday. Dawson will ride under the colors of the New-York Athletic

There was lively speculation on the five-mile race as Dawson was to meet the old-time champion, F. L. Schade, of Georgetown. Georgetown prided herself in having a wheelman of the Wefers sort in Schade, as he won the five-mile championship last year and was the holder of the intercollegiate rec d for the distance. Dawson had trained faithfully for the race, and his friends railied to his support when the followers of the Washington mar egan to talk about Schade's chances of winning. Dawson watched Schade closely throughout, and is most of the five miles Schade lay next to the pace makers, with Dawson on his rear wheel. In the final third of a mile Dawson turned out to one side and began to move to the front, and Schade started to sprint at the same time. Rounding the last turn the two men were almost on even terms and pedalling for all that was in them. As soon as they were erraight for the tape Dawson forged to the front, and, coming on without a faiter, won easily by two lengths. Schade tired badly in the last twenty yards, and little Hays nipped him at the post by half a wheel. Considerable money changed post by half a wheel. Considerable money changed hands over the contest in a quiet and decorous way. Dawson heat out his team mate in the mile in a pretty finish, while the two made a runaway race of the tandem contest. W. H. Fearing, jr., captured the quarter-mile, with Powell second, and Powell won the half-mile. In points Columbia scored 34 to 3 for Yale, 2 for the University of Pennsylvania and 1 for Georgetown. Three of the old intercollegiate records went by the board in the course of the afternoon. The mile was reduced to 2:13 3-5 from 2:25 1-5; the tandem mile to 2:19 1-5 the course of the afternoon. The mile was reduced to 2:33:5-5 from 2:251-5; the tandem mile to 2:361-5 from 2:362-5. and the five-mile to 11:361-5 from 2:344-5. The latter was the record made by Schade last year on the same track.

Some of the Harvard riders seemed to think that the Columbia boys used too many tricks on the track, but if any foul riding was done none of the spectators saw Columbia do any of it. The only foul riding of the day was done by G. F. Hurt, of Hartford. Hurt bore over on Powell in the homestretch and carried the Columbia man well up the embankment almost at the tape. Hurt finished second, but he was disqualified by the referee. It was as at that two of the riders came to blows in the training quarters after the heat. O. V. Babcock, of the Harlem Wheelmen, rode an unpaced half-mile in 1:32-2-5. A triplet, with three young-sters on board, went a half-mile in 571-5 seconds. It was a fine duy tor sport, and the attendance would probably have been larger if there had been no free street parade in this city.

THE BICYCLE PARADE. A GOOD SHOW, ENJOYED BY MANY PEOPLE. "The Evening Telegram's" annual bicycle parade on the Boulevard yesterday was highly interesting. and it was witnessed by thousands of people. The parade was slow in starting, being about fifty min-utes behind time, but when it did get off, which was at 3:50 p. m., its spectacular and other features fully repaid the crowd for its long wait. The parade started from the Boulevard and Seventythird-st, and continued to Grant's Tomb, where it was reviewed by the committee appointed to award the prizes. There were about five thousand wheel-passed the reviewing-stand. The first division of the parade reached the Tomb at 4:55 p. m., and it was led by Bent Brothers' Military Band, who played as they rode their wheels. Then came the bicycle corps of the 4th Regiment, New-Jersey National Guard. Two rows of the cadet wheelmen rode tandems. At their head rode Rose Marstom, the little girl who wen the first prize in last year's parade. Her handsome white costume showed off her graceful figure and pretty features to perfection, while her riding was pleasing to look upon. Following the cadets came the bi-cycle corps of the 12th Regiment, N. G. N. Y. The 1st Battery, N. G. N. Y., which came next, stirred the crowd by firing a salute with their pis-

men in line, and they were loudly applauded as they tols as they passed by. The Century Wheelmen made a pretty sight in The Century Wheelmen made a pretty sight in their light brown suits, with white gloves. The Koyal Arcanum Wheelmen made a most dignified sight and also a decided impression as they rode by, each rider carrying a small American flag.

The Greenwich Wheelmen were also worthy of special mention, and appeared well in their blue uniforms. The Wolff-American cyclists were headed by their own band on tricycles. The Fire Department kicycle corps turned out fifty-the strong and rode their wheels like veterans. They had a small fire engine in the lead.

A cute little calored girl headed the Calomet Bicycle Cub, which is composed of colored men, and she rode well. Among the other clubs in line were Mecca, Triumph, Excessor, Bowling Green, Lincoln, Morris, Transit, St. Columbus, Manhattan, Eureka, Pequed, Tuxedo and Pierce.

The members of the Japanese cycling organization made their first public appearance in this parade, They marshalled about twenty strong, and excited mote than usual interest.

They marshalled about twenty strong, and excited more than usual interest.

The third division of the parade was led by a large number of tandems decorated profusely with flowers. The South Brooklyn Wheelmen, who rode in this division, made a most creditable showing, and their riding was most favorably commented upon. They were followed by the Claremont, Bushwick, Indians, Greater New-York, Clio and Catholic clubs.

upon. They were followed by the Claremont, Bushwick, Indians, Greater New-York, Cilo and Catholic clubs.

The humorous features of the parade were numerous, and included about everything that was ever seen awheel. One farmer had a miniature load of hay on his wheel, on which he gambolied about with a total disregard for his neck. Another wore the skin of a polar bear complete even to the head.
Among those in the grandstand were General
Wesley Merritt, General C. H. T. Collis, Police Commissioner Andrews, Lleutenant-Governor Woodruff, General W. S. Stryker, Magistrate Simms, Samuel McMillan, J. B. Townsend, Fire Commissioner Sheffield, Isnag B. Potter, Edward Bell and John Jeroloman.

The prizes which have been won by the successful contestants will be awarded to them at the Casino
a week from to-morrow night.

There were a couple of minor accidents along the line of the parade, as follows:
George Thompson, age forty-four, of No. 317 West
Sixty-seventh-st. fell from his bloycle at West End-ave, and Fifty-minth-st, about 7 o'clock p. m.
and fractured his left leg, and was taken to Roosevelt Hospital.

A delivery wagon, piled with newspapers, dashed along the line, and Mary Comerford, age five, of
No. 190 West Ninety-minth-st, was run over by it.
Her injuries were examined by Dr. Joseph
H. O'Connor, of No. 150 West One-hundred-and-sixteenth-st, and she was taken home.

Yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock he again called, and seeing that Mrs. Gilbert was worse made arrangements to have her taken to the New-York Hospital. At 4 o'clock the ambulance arrived, but in the mean time Mrs. Gilbert, despairing of ever getting well, had taken the polson. At the hospital physicians at once administered antidotes.

Late last night the woman's condition was serious. The police of the Delancey-st, station were informed of the attempt to commit suicide, and Detective Hay went to the hospital and placed Mrs. Gilbert under arrest.
